Experience

Rosalía graduated in Law from the University of Valencia and specialised in IP with a Master's Degree at the University of Alicante and a course at the London Guildhall University.

She started working in Madrid for a top Spanish law firm specialising in IP matters, where she acquired in-depth knowledge on litigation. In 1998, she moved to Alicante and worked for two reputed IP agencies as manager and head of department. In 2005, Rosalía established her own IP firm Ballester i Asociados, now called Ballester IP after a change of name in 2012.

By the end of 2012, Rosalía founded Interty, an association aiming at promoting cooperation amongst its members through the exchange of IP information. Nowadays, Interty has a wide network of members from all continents and continues to grow every year.

Throughout her career, Rosalía has closely worked with clients all over the world from different industries such as retail, toys, furniture, food or cosmetics. She regularly attends the main conferences such as INTA, MARQUES ASIPI, ECTA, PTMG, AIPPI, APAA or CTF to stay updated on the latest IP trends. She has collaborated in several INTA subcommittees for European legislation and Community Trademarks and Designs, and has also held master classes for the Magister Lvcentinvs of the University of Alicante and the Master's Degree in Intellectual Property of the Universidad Carlos III in Madrid. Her professional efforts and her firm's have been recognised many times by WTR and IAM Patent, among others.
